CONVICTION OF TOWNLEY UPHOLD BY SUPREME COURT

MUST SERVE 90 DAYS SENTENCE
FOR CONSPIRACY TO PRE-VENT ENLISTMENTS

(By United Press)

St. Paul, April 29—The state supreme court today upheld the Jackson county court in the conviction of A. C. Townley, president, and Joseph Gilbert, former organizer, of the National Nonpartisan league.

They were charged with conspiracy to discourage enlistments during the war, found guilty and sentenced to serve ninety days in the county jail. The case was appealed. Meantime Gilbert was convicted and is serving a sentence in Goodhue county.

His case was before the state pardon board this week but it refused to grant a pardon.

Conviction of Townley and Gilbert in the Jackson county court nearly a year ago furnished one of the most sensational trials in the history of the state.

When it came to the final argument Townley refused to permit his attorneys to argue the case for him and in his shirt sleeves he argued for hours one hot July night for permission to argue his own case. He was denied permission, but his argument for the privilege, constituted as much of an argument for his case as if he had had permission from the court.

The case probably will be carried to the United States supreme court.

No Hope to Sell Light Wines and Beer

(United Press)

Washington, April 29—There is no hope for any amendment to the Volstead law which will permit the sale of light wines and beer, Rep. Andrew J. Volstead, chairman of the house judiciary committee, emphatically declared today. Such legislation would violate the prohibition amendment, he said, and added his committee would not waste time in hearing on such an amendment.

ARE DETERMINED TO MAKE GERMANY OBSERVE TREATY

FRENCH PREMIER SAYS "AT LAST
WE ARE GOING TO END IT"

WEBB MILLER

United Press Staff Correspondent

Paris, April 29—"At last we are going to end it," Premier Briand, of France, declared as he boarded the train here today starting for the meeting of the allied supreme council in London.

Briand was accompanied by the supreme military chiefs of the republic, Marshal Foch, Marshal Weygand and General Berthelot.

They started for London determined to win approval of the other allies for their project in marching deeper into Germany and seizing the Ruhr coal basin.

The fact that Briand took military leaders of France with him was considered very significant. Heretofore there has been doubts that they would attend the London conference.

The military leaders carried their dispatch carriers which were believed to contain plans for an advance into the Ruhr district and even deeper penetration into Germany, perhaps reaching as far as Berlin itself.

PASSENGER BOAT RUNS ASHORE ON BLOCK ISLAND

LIVES OF 400 PASSENGERS ARE IMPERILED—HIGH SEA
RUNNING

(United Press)

Boston, April 29—Four hundred passengers were imperiled today when the steamer Marmarae bound from the Azores to New Bedford ran ashore on the southwest coast of Block Island, according to a wireless message received here today.

There was a heavy sea running and the position of the steamer was obscured by a dense fog which surrounded the New England coast.

Coast guards were sent to the rescue. According to the wireless message the steamer's forward compartment was full of water.

Wireless Loses Contact With Wrecked Boat

Newport, R. I., April 29—The wireless station in Nantucket lost contact with the stranded steamer Marmarae this afternoon.

The operator was unable to get an answer from the vessel which previously had been in constant communication with the station.

Naval officers were inclined to believe the steamer's power plant was out of order.

The naval station here was planning to send ships to stand by the Marmarae. The wind was still severe, the sky overcast and the fog hung low.

Three hundred of the passengers are bound for California to work in orchards. One hundred are going to New Bedford and the remainder are on their way to New York. There are about 450 aboard.

There was danger of a panic when the vessel struck while feeling its way in the fog. Most of the passengers were asleep when it dropped its nose onto the low shelf of rocks. They rushed to the deck without waiting to dress. They were calmed by officers and the crew.

The ship was a German freighter and was fitted for passenger service last year. This was the third voyage from Lisbon. She has a crew of one hundred and carries a cargo for New York and New Bedford.

Can't Slander Your Neighbor, Even in German

(United Press)

St. Paul, April 29—Mrs. Anna Eltgrath of Calendon, had not the right to say slanderous things about Mrs. Matilda Ernster, a neighbor, even if she did say them in German, the supreme court held today.

The Houston county court was upheld in a decision that the remarks were a legal basis for a damage suit. The case will be tried in Houston county. Mrs. Ernster sued for $20,000 damages. The remarks are said to have involved the defendant's husband.

Once Famous for Embroidery. St. Gall, Switzerland, is the noted embroidery seat of modern days, and one of the most influential centers of Christian civilization in central Europe. The city owes its foundation to the Irish apostle Gallus, who in the year 614 founded a hermitage near the brook Steinach. In the resulting monastery of St. Gall the strict rules of the Irish church were enforced until 720, when those of St. Benedict were substituted by an abbot, Othmar. In 1061 the Abbot Norpert of St. Gall erected a convent on the Sitter river, the place taking the name of Abbatis Cella-Apenzell, and the abbots of St. Gall became the dominating influence of the land until the subsequently much impressed mountaineers resorted to force and succeeded in shaking off their yoke.

20 PER CENT DROP IN OPERATING COST OF ALL RAILROADS

IS NECESSARY TO PUT THEM ON THEIR FEET AND REDUCE RATES

(United Press)

Chicago, April 29—Twenty per cent reduction in all operating expenses including wages, is necessary to put the American railroads "on their feet" and make possible a substantial decrease in freight and passenger rates, Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railroad Age and advisor to the association of railroad executives, made this statement today.

Dunn who spoke officially for the American railroads, characterized the charges of W. Jett Lauck, A. F. of L. economist, that the railroads are wasting billions of dollars a year by mismanagement, as "pure propaganda to discredit private management and boost the Plumb plan."

WAGES DOWN 15 PER CENT, COST OF LIVING 30 PER CENT

SAYS DIRECTOR OF U. S. CHAM-BER OF COMMERCE—MUST DROP TO PERMANENT
LEVEL

BY RALPH COUCH

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Atlantic City, N. J., April 29—More than three million Americans will feel the pinch of unemployment until wages reach a permanent lower level, Homer L. Ferguson, director of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared today.

"Business men and manufacturers attending the convention of the chamber of commerce here are convinced that wage reductions must become general before the economic depression clears completely away," asserted Ferguson, who recently persuaded workers voluntarily to accept a decrease at his big Newport News ship building plant.

"The movement is already well advanced. We have now fallen to a level of 15 per cent below a few months ago. Living costs have gone down 30 per cent. The worker thus is better off than he was despite the reduction."

Have Abject Belief in Fate.

In the Koran is found the idea that on the brow of every human being are inscribed invisible characters which decree the events of his life and his appointed time. The first is termed "Kismet," the second "Edjel." From this belief springs unquestioned submission to the decrees of fate. Death is considered by Moslems terrible only in the abstract and when viewed from a distance. In polite society it is never mentioned save under some poetical name. "Cupbearer of the sphere" is one of the more common phrases.
And never is it mentioned except when prefaced by the words "Far be it from you."

The Moth's Song.

In contrast with a host of buzzing relatives, the moths are a silent tribe.
This makes the death's-head moth all the more conspicuous in having a voice with which it makes a sound something like a mouse's squeak, which can be heard at a distance of several yards. It appears from a recent learned investigation that while the cricket and cicada, and indeed all other tuneless insects, are comparable to fiddlers or other members of a stringed band, the death's-head moth really is a vocalist making its song with its mouth, on the reed pipe plan on which land animals depend. If the insects should get up a concert, the death's-head moth is the only voice they could muster. Was it the provocation of his name that made him find a voice and lift it up in protest?

Facts About Cocoa Tree.

The cocoa tree grows wild in Central America and South America and was cultivated in Mexico and Peru long before the coming of Columbus.
It is a small tree a dozen feet or more high, with evergreen leaves and wax-like flowers which appear in clusters on the main trunk or large branches, so that the fruits are attached directly to the older parts of the tree rather than to the tips of the younger branches. The fruit, which ripens in from two to four months, is melon-shaped, nearly a foot long, yellowish-brown or purplish in color, and marked with about ten ribs. The coco beans of commerce are obtained from different sources grown on different varieties of cocoa trees, and the beans are blended as is done with coffee.

Tall Story, Anyhow.

"In the old days," related the truthful bachelor, "I knew a man named Tradwind who had a remarkable dog."
"So this is to be a dog story?" interrupted the traveling salesman. "Yes, that dog went everywhere Tradwind
did. He was so smart he'd follow Tradwind into a saloon and, after his master had taken six drinks, would nip him on the cuff of the leg as a warning that it was time to go home.
Do you wonder that Tradwind erected

Inventor of the Zeppelin.

Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, German inventor, one of the foremost aéro-nauts of the world at the beginning of the twentieth century, died in 1917.
While many of the expectations of the Zeppelin were realized, it was apparent late in 1916 that the smaller, fleet-er aircraft of the monoplane and bi-plane type were better adapted to almost all kinds of warfare, and the aged inventor died in the knowledge that successful conquest with his invention was impossible.

NEW SPRING HATS

Fabric Foundation Is Feature of Seasonable Headgear.

Etamine, Loose Mesh Cotton Material Resembling Batavia Cloth, Is One of the Latest.

The new millinery which has already made its appearance this spring has usually some sort of a fabric foundation such as, satin, taffeta, faille or crepe de chine, this latter material being in the lead. Another fabric which is new to the season is a loose mesh cotton called etamine, somewhat resembling batavia cloth.

The mesh is so open that ribbons are often run through it, giving the effect of embroidery. Colored fabrics from Japan are also used. In fact, there is quite a vogue for things oriental, and Japanese embroideries are seen on many a smart shape. Sport hats which are trimmed in this manner are generally accompanied by a scarf and handbag to match.

Small shapes are the general favorites, with a strong tendency toward the Moroccan turban effect. This is a draped affair with a trimming which droops at the side. This drooping of feet is to be an important one this season. Sometimes it is obtained by means of a ribbon bow with long ends which hang from the side, extending to or below the shoulder. Then again flowers or feathers, often placed beneath the brim, carry out this idea.

It is declared that if the director mode prevails in suits and frocks that this summer will see the high square crown of that period used on many of the summer hats. Soft, drooping brims also characterize this mode and are, as a rule, becoming to many different types.

As to colors, they are gay indeed; vivid greens, bright reds, pimento, tomato and fangerine, blues, and many tones of tan and brown. At the same time black hats are featured, chiefly of tulle, lisee, hemp and horsehair.

All sorts of flower and fruit, and even vegetable trimmings, are to be found; grapes, currants and cherries being the most popular fruits. Solid flower turbans are shown, while chantilly lace and cellophane are employed to fashion toques for dinner and evening wear.

Feathers are also used this spring, and as a rule droop instead of standing upright.

NOTES ABOUT SPRING HATS

Prominent Place Given to Ribbon Is Outstanding Note; Soft Headgear Most Popular.

An outstanding feature of the new spring styles in millinery is the prominent place given to ribbon as a trimming. All widths of ribbon, from the very narrow to the very wide, are being used.

Charming new sport hats feature an attractive narrow two-tone ribbon, worked in sections between rows of milan hemp.

Among the tailor hats, hemp, lisee and milan straw are almost equally popular. A slight preference, however, is given to the hemp.

A novel but very attractive model is made of faille and trimmed with large circles of hemp in rainbow colors.

Among the large shapes for spring is a hat made of black straw with an underbrim of black velvet. The edge of the brim is cut to represent leaves. Black velvet ribbon is used about the crown.

A chic little French model takes the shape of a toque. It is made simply of loops of blood crepe de chine with a fall of self-material on one side.

Glycerine ostrich and vulture feathers are very popular. These hanging feather trims in a great many cases hang to the waistline and even below. The ends of the vulture are frequently tipped with gold or silver.

Soft hats promise to be by far the most popular of all the shapes.

On many of the French models recently imported, there is much cherry and grape trimming in hanging effects

Use of Laces.

Laces are used extensively, but rather as a decorative feature, instead of the substance of the gown.

Her Position.

Little Esther was sometimes permitted to talk on the phone with mother's help, and one morning when she had been left alone for a few minutes she decided to call up her grand mother.

She climbed carefully onto a chair and from there onto the sewing machine, which stood near by. She took down the receiver, but when the operator called, "Number please," she could think of nothing to say.

"Get off the line, please," called the operator, as no one answered. "I'm not on the line," piped up a small voice. "I'm on my mamma's sewing machine."

Not Now.

The sweet young thing had been unable to buy the article she wanted, but in each case the clerk had assured her that "next time" it would assuredly be in stock. One day she called at the store to find a new clerk on the job.

"Do you have spats yet?" she inquired.

The clerk blushed. "No, ma'am," he stammered. "I'm not living with my wife now."

Critics Not Always Harmful.

It has been said that "critics are made up from the scraps and scattered remnants that are left over when good folks are created." That depends on the spirit and purpose of the critic. There are helpful critics.—Exchange

Increase Sea Safety.

Life-boat davits, described and illustrated in Popular Mechanics Magazine, are so designed that one man, by turning a crank, can lower a boat with ease. They are now being installed on a number of ocean liners, greatly increasing the potential safety of sea travel as well as the comfort of passengers. If use of the boats becomes necessary. The one crank operates both the outward swing of the davit and the falls. Because of the improvement in case of lowering, larger lifeboats can be used, with more commodious storage space for fresh water and provisions.

A Would-Be Auditor.

Well, what did you think of my acting? asked an amateur player of a truthful but diplomatic member of the audience.

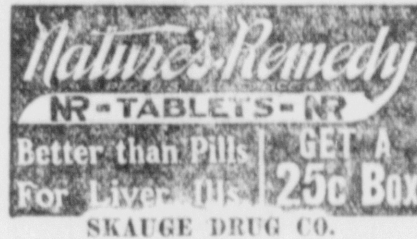

"I can say this," replied the spectator frankly, "I have a friend who I am confident would have given $500 to have heard you."

"Who is it?" asked the embryo Booth, highly pleased.

"Well, you wouldn't know him. But he's deaf as a post."—American Legion Weekly.

Attractive Mouth.

Of course, ideals and ideas about beauty differ greatly, but there can be very little difference of opinion about the attributes of an attractive mouth. In the first place, it must be red, but not too red, and the teeth must be or seem to be perfect.

Music's Perfect Mirror

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

The New Edison is like the perfect mirror that reflects form and feature, true to every line and subtlety of coloring. It gives you an exact RE-CREATION of the singing or playing of the living artist or artists.

Mr. Edison spent 7 years of his time and 3 millions of his dollars to develop the perfect realism of the New Edison. He has proved this perfect realism by comparing the New Edison with living artists 5,000 times before more than 5 million people. The New Edison is positively the only phonograph which can sustain this test.

We have, for you, a proof on offset paper of the famous Franklin Booth Etching of Mr. Edison, as he looks today. Size 12 x 19 inches. Bears no advertising matter; suitable for framing. Just fill out the ballot,—and bring or mail it to us.

THAT AMNESIA CASE

You read about Otto Heier, who said he was the victim of amnesia and that his mind had been blank the past five years. That's nothing unusual, lots of people suffer with amnesia and don't know it.
Take some of those delinquent subscribers to a newspaper. They've got the amnesia.
Take the man whose wife tells him to calcimine the back kitchen and he forgets it in spite of constant reminders. He has amnesia.
This Heier person was married five weeks ago and had no record of that event in his brain cells. That's nothing new either. Some men go to a convention miles away from Brainerd and forget they're ever been married.
Hereafter if a fellow forgets anything, slips up on an engagement, fails to meet his note at the bank or the butcher bill on the corner, he can tell the parties most interested that it's all due to amnesia and let it go at that.
That's what that Heier fellow did with his five years' of past events and they gave him a cot in the hospital and we suppose a pretty nurse in addition to a pretty wife is fussing over him and taking care of him.

SARCASM IN LIFE

Some points may be gained by the use of sarcasm, but as a rule the stuff is not appreciated and a man using it daily as his style in writing soon gets people disgusted.
The real thing of life, the practical things, the things that build up a community, are gained by wholehearted, honest efforts and not by a wholesale use of sarcasm. The sarcastic stuff may read good to a writer, but you can't inspire a crowd or a community to enthusiasm by hurling bolts of sarcasm at them.
Recipe for Good Memory.
Rose, the garrulous domestic, can give you facts of history—international, dramatic, scandalous—right off the bat without a moment's hesitation.
"How do you manage to remember all these things, Rose?" inquired her employer the other day.
Then Rose came back with the infallible rule for memory training.
"I'll tell ye, ma'am," says she, "All me life never a lie I've told. And when ye don't have to be taxi' yer memory to be rememberin' what ye told this one or that one or how ye explained this or that ye don't overwork it and it lasts ye, good as new, forever."

Hawk Makes Fatal Mistake.
The other day the family of B. P. Malsbury of Imhustown, N. J. heard a crash of breaking glass and discovered a bay window broken, and flopping helplessly about the floor, a large hawk.
Knocked to the floor, also, was a freshly stuffed ringneck pheasant. Which Russel Malsbury had shot during the gunning season and had just brought home from the taxidermist as a gift for his mother. The stuffed bird had been left in the bay window while the family admired it, and the hawk, probably sighting it from a nearby tree, had made a 100-yard swoop for its intended prey, only to crash through the unseen glass barrier and injure itself fatally.

The Seven Seas in Italy.
The Seven seas (Septem Maria) are extensive lagoons of salt water in northern Italy, generally separated from the Adriatic by narrow strips of sand or embankments, partly natural and partly artificial, but having openings which admit the influx and efflux of the sea water, and serve as ports for communication with the mainland. The best known and the most extensive of these lagoons is that in which Venice, is situated, which extends from Torcello in the north to Chioggia and Brondolo in the south, a distance of over forty miles. These lagoons formerly were much more extensive, and afforded a continuous means of internal navigation from Ravenna to Atinum, a few miles north of Torcello. That city, like Ravenna, originally stood in the midst of a lagoon.

AMUSEMENTS

At the New Park Theatre
James Whitcomb Riley's classic of American boyhood, "The Old Swimmin' Hole", which has been adapted for the screen with Charles Ray in the role of Ezra, was written in 1887 and has run through a record number of issues both in its original language and through translations into the languages of many foreign countries.
Riley was born in Grenfield, Indiana, in 1853. His writings, chiefly in the form of contributions to newspapers and magazines, first began to attract attention about 1875. These appeared over the pen name "B. F. Johnson of Boone." Never taking his verse writing very seriously, Riley busied himself with such unpoetical work as the painting of wagons and other odd pursuits.
In remarkable degree this author possessed the gift of playing upon the human heart strings with magic touch and the quality that makes his verse ring true. Among his best remembered writings in addition

Charles Ray in "The Old Swimmin' Hole"

"The Old Swimmin' Hole" are "After Whiles", "Green Fields and Running Brook", "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" and "Rhymes of Childhood", all of which are preeminently characterized by humor, pathos and sympathetic treatment of the simple phases of life.
"The Old Swimmin' Hole" in its motion picture form is a First National attraction directed by Joseph De Grasse, and will be seen at the New Park theatre today.

At the Lyceum
A new William Fox picture, "Partners of Fate" which has recorded success elsewhere, is to be seen at the Lyceum theatre tonight only with Louise Lovely, the new star, as its central figure.
The story, which is by Stephen Chalmers, deals with the trials and tribulations that visit two young couples who discover shortly after marriage that fate has paired them off wrongly and dealt them mates with whom they never can be happy.

Peacock Feathers Disliked.
Peacock feathers are looked upon as unlucky in many countries. Their mere possession is reputed to be a harbinger of misfortune to the owner. Every kind of loss will have to be sustained by the occupiers of the house they adorn, including illness and death, and many country people, even now, would be horrified if any one were to bring under a roof one or more of these feathers. It is further said that children will never be healthy in rooms adorned with these iridescent plumes, and that it is the most unlucky thing in the world to give as a plaything to the youngsters.

Even in minor things some of us are intolerant of others' so-called trouble. I heard a man the other day complain that while he was at a certain hotel there was bacon for breakfast every morning and never fish. His friend, who hated fish, declared that D— was most unreasonable. "Why, there's nothing nicer than bacon!" he said. Just when you feel inclined to think you are the most "put-on" person in the world, look around and you'll find many troubled ones with whom you would not change places.—Exchange.

RESOLUTIONS ON IRISH QUESTION

Knights of Columbus Lodge at Meeting Attended by 250 Members Takes Action on Same

SYMPATHIZE WITH THE IRISH

Pray that the Government Established by the Irish People be Recognized as Lawful One

At a meeting attended by 250 lodge members, Knights of Columbus lodge No. 1491, adopted resolutions on the Irish question as follows:

Whereas—We, the members of Brainerd Council No. 1491, Knights of Columbus, hereby express our intense repugnance and indignation at the infamous and abominable atrocities which are being daily perpetrated in Ireland by the British government against a defenseless people—atrocities, which, as the British Labor Commission has declared, make the name of "Britain" a shame to the whole world.

And Whereas—We protest against the intrigues and propaganda which are now being conducted in this country for the purpose of the British Empire in its nefarious, militaristic, tyrannical and enslaving policies, both political and economic, towards ourselves and other nations of the whole world.

And Whereas—We, as Americans and lovers of liberty, may well claim that indulgence toward a debtor nation which is presumably using funds borrowed from the United States government to maintain a barbarous warfare against the Irish Republic, misplaced indulgence being a subsidy to the oppressor and lends support to a campaign hostile to American principles, therefore, be it,

Resolved—That we express our admiration for, and sympathy with, the brave Irish people in their struggle for independence and we pledge to them our political and material support to the achievement of that independence. Questions relating to human liberty are never foreign to the hearts and conscience of true Americans. America is the proper forum for the consideration of such questions. We owe, not to humanity at large, but to the Irish people in particular, a redemption of the pledges made by Benjamin Franklin and patriots associated with him in the American Revolution. Therefore, be it further,

Resolved—That we call upon our worthy President, Warren G. Harding, and Congress of the United States, in the name of humanity and civilization to vindicate the principles of American liberty and to redeem the pledges made to the Irish people by the founders of this nation by recognizing the government established by the Irish people as the only lawful government of Ireland.

Signed,
J. F. HURLEY,
A. J. CULLEN,
JOHN G. HADERSBECK,
Committee

The Book Worm's Bother.
Volumes have been written about the operations of the book worm and prizes offered for some suggestion for preventing their activities, but the book worm still thrives. The books made of pure rag paper, rag and wood fiber, and clay filler—each are attractive to a particular group of insects and the result is that no volumes are immune from their attacks. Many bindings are very attractive to roaches and it sometimes happens that owing to the combined activities of these pests that a book is reduced to a mass of dust.

EDWARDS HEADS PROMOTION LIST

AFTER BECOMING A MAJOR GENERAL, HE MAY BE NAMED GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO.

SHANKS GETS JUST REWARD

Did Great Work as Chief of Port of Embarkation at Hoboken—Weeks Creates Precedent by Announcing Two Promotions in Advance.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington.—Nothing has happened, not even the diplomatic sentimentalism which came recently, to change the opinion that General Pershing is to be given the job of looking after the reserve forces of the United States army, a work of building up and coalescing. It will be a big job and one which even a ranking officer of the United States army can undertake without loss of prestige or dignity.

There have just been sent to the senate the names of the new major generals and brigadier generals of the United States army. As is already known, comparatively few changes were made in the list as sent over by former President Wilson some time ago.

It was a foregone conclusion that Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards would be nominated as a major general. Edwards' case has been discussed too frequently to need much additional comment. As soon as the senate can act he will be confirmed. It is irony, and perhaps cruelty, that the promotion of Edwards will displace one of his classmates and lifelong friends, Omar Bundy, who was named by Wilson for a place among the major generals.

General Bundy, like Edwards, has been a center of comment, discussion and dispute. He commanded a division in France and later was relieved from his command. He had a wonderful fighting record before the last war began and it was he who told the French generals who wanted him to order some of his men to fall back, that Americans did not know how to fall back. Bundy was praised and criticized alternately for this action. He is an Indiana man.

May Be Governor of Porto Rico.
What is going to be done with Edwards now that he has been made a major general of regulars? Some army men seem to think that he will retire voluntarily. He has had 40 years of service and can retire at any time that he wishes. Others say that he will stick until the day that the law forces him to go out on the sixty-fourth anniversary of his birth. There is rumor that President Harding wants to make Edwards governor of Porto Rico. If this be true it may be that he will accept, for some of his friends say that he would like the job.

Maj. Gen. David C. Shanks is the only man promoted to the rank of major general who did not see service overseas, but Shanks did a really tremendous work as chief of the port of embarkation at Hoboken. He tried hard enough to get overseas, but the authorities would not let him go because he was showing a perfect genius for the work which he had in hand.

Barring Edwards, the only new name on the list of promotions to the rank of major general is that of George Bell, Jr. He commanded a division overseas and he did good work. Moreover he has been in the active military service of his country ever since March, 1876, when he entered West Point as a cadet.

Weeks Creates a Precedent.
Secretary Weeks' announcement that during the coming year when two retirements in the grade of major general occur, Brig. Gen. Charles J. Bailey and Samuel G. Sturgis will be promoted to fill them, came somewhat as a surprise, not because of the names of the favored ones, but because it is against custom to tell men so long in advance that they are to be promoted. However, there seems to be some wisdom in this, because it will stop log rolling on the part of friends of brigadier generals and will save the secretary of war from the importunities of men who know what they want.

General Bailey will take the place of Gen. Joseph T. Dickman, who commanded the Marne division (the Third) of the American army and who later commanded the first corps in the Argonne, and later still the army of occupation. Dickman will retire in October. It may be that Secretary Weeks will recommend that Dickman, accounted by some military critics as the greatest American soldier who saw service on the other side, be promoted to the grade of lieutenant general on retirement or perhaps before.

Three officers who were nominated by former President Wilson as brigadier generals will fall back to the rank of colonel as a result of the action of the present administration. They are among the younger men of the army and, as the secretary of war doubtless thought, they can wait. All of them, however, did fine service in France, and it was their youth more than anything else which caused them to be dropped from the list prepared by former Secretary of War Baker.

De Mountains Creep?
Geodetic observations in the Himalayan mountains have led to a belief that these great mountains, the highest on the globe, are constantly moving slowly toward the south, with a consequent crumpling of the Siwalik hills. It has been long known that there exists curious anomalies in the density of the earth under these mountains and in the vicinity which would seem to verify the creeping hypothesis, but it is difficult to not only make accurate observations as to the Tibetan country is forbidden to foreigners, even those who want like to visit the country purely in the cause of science.

Caesar's Words.
Julius Caesar is credited with the saying, which means, "I came, I saw, I conquered." In connection with his victories in Pontus, a Kingdom of Asia Minor, B. C. 47. The historian Suetonius states that the words were displayed before Caesar's title in his public triumph, to indicate the rapidity with which the campaign was concluded. Plutarch, in his life of Caesar, says the latter, in the account he gave one of his Roman friends of his victory over Pharnaces at Zela in Pontus, used the three words as a concise summary of the expedition.

Was a Good Judge of Liquor

"Since a young man I had a liking for liquor and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constant drinking gave me a stomach trouble which became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my druggist got me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I am now as good as new." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson Pharmacy.

DOWN IN THE HEEL

By MARIETTA A. BONNER.

I do wish someone would be inspired to invent some sort of receptacle capable of containing an eleventh portion of Satan's kingdom. I do wish that someone else would herd together all these creatures who have found it their "bounden duty to tell somebody something for their good." Then, last of all, what a blessing—what unbounded joy—would there be if those who were "told" could crowd aforesaid vessel with "tellers."

Only yesterday I was perched on the lower rail of a fence in deep thought. You know, I am one of those people who just have to sit down when they think—and besides, I had sent me two miles for milk, and I needed a rest. Before I had been there half a wink, along came one of the "in duty bound" talkers:

"Why, child alive," she chuckled, "ain't your nose full of enough freckles now 'bout settin' on fence rails in August heat? Besides, it 'pears to me as if women twenty years old might find something else to do 'stead of spending the afternoon by the road!" She stalked on, kicking up clouds of dust in a satisfied manner.

I made no answer. She had spoken the truth. Here I was—dumpy, a double chin—not enough hair, and that bit straw colored—too many freckles, and each one flaming red—twenty years old, and still known as "Miss Katie."

"Everything is lovely—lovely—lovely," I told myself—"except me."

Gathering up my pails, I gloomily began to trudge home.

When I sat down at the table I almost forgot my troubles.

"The whole world beautiful. I'm the ugliest thing in it," dashed through my mind.

Before my eyes came floating myriad faces—plump, thin, oval, round—all beautifully molded. There were round blue eyes, almost round black eyes, and brown eyes that sloped in slits. Girls, girls, and more girls. One dazzling creature bobbed up and down mockingly before me.

"She's the advertisement for that 'Get Pretty Chemical Company,'" I cried aloud.

"What'd you say?" called me from her room.

"Ma! Ma!" I shouted in reply, "where's those magazines Aunt Hester bought at the county fair last summer?"

"What in the name of sense d'ye want of them this hot day? They're up in the trunk room."

At first thought I drew back. Attics are no easy places to search when the heat is 90 under the trees. Then it came to my mind all at once that I had heard of one famous European beauty whose complexion had excited universal comment.

On the inside cover of the magazine, glowing in softest rose shades and sparkling at me, was the plump face I'd been searching for.

"Praises be—'Get-Pretty' Chemical company, 603 Sixth Avenue, Tinnytown, N. Y. Treatment only $3, but will give you a complexion worth $300—"

"Is a mouse after you?" called me as I passed her door. But I was too breathless to answer—my one aim was to reach the mail box by the gate.

Shivering with delight all night—but two weeks passed before a package came for me.

When I had torn off the paper, I found three boxes inside—one containing a green paste and marked "Hair"—of the remaining two, one had a pink salve for the "Skin" and the other a black lotion for "Eye-lashes."

I stood up on a chair, took down my mirror, stuck it up against the lamp and began to set out the boxes. Somehow or other one of them rolled and in snatching at it I struck the lamp. The shade tipped off and crashed to the ground. In a panic I blew out the lamp, and then my heart sank.

I had no other shade, and if I went down for another one I would have to come up and see how it all had happened. Feeling cautiously among the pieces of glass on the table, I picked up one box and sniffed "at it." "I'd better carry it to the window, thought I, but when I tried this, I found it too dark to distinguish the lettering."

"Must be for the hair," I decided, and sitting down began to massage it into my scalp.

The other two treatments I applied to my cheeks and eyes, then I invoked my guardian angel and lay me down to excited sleep. As soon as I had opened my eyes next morning I sat up.

"Let me get the mirror," was my first thought—thus slighting my guardian angel.

I reached one foot out and felt for my slippers. Then some one tapped at the door.

"Come," I called, and waited. The door opened a crack and Sarah Angin thrust in her head.

"S' only me, Katie! Your ma sent me!—Kate Sarah Chispeck! What on earth has happened to you? Your face is green and black! Mis' Chispeck!" she screamed down the stairs.

With sinking heart I reached for the mirror—and one look showed my face, puffed and pale green! I did not look at my hair, I just laid my head down on the bed and howled.

CHIROPRACTIC HEALTH BREVITIES

There are 310 mechanical movements known to workmen. All are modifications of those occurring within the human body.

In the human machine are parts which in principle are like all the parts, levers, joints, pulleys, pumps, pipes, wheels, axes, bearings, sockets, seams, girders, trusses, arches, columns, cables, and supports known to science. Man's mechanical works are but adaptation of principles to the form and action of the body.

WHY NOT ADJUST THE HUMAN MACHINE TO THE CAUSE OF ITS DISEASE AND AILMENTS?

WHITE PARK IS GIVEN TO CITY

A. A. White, Former Brainerd Resident, is Donor of Splendid Two Block Site on River

MUNIFICENCE STIRS BRAINERD

Father of A. A. White was L. P. White, Who Built the First House in Brainerd

A. A. White, former resident of Brainerd and owning large interests here, was so pleased with the city on his visit here while enroute from Montana to St. Paul, that he gave the city of Brainerd a site two blocks in extent or equal to about 20 average city lots, to be used as a park.

Mr. White had been approached by the parks and playgrounds committee of the Chamber of Commerce and listened to their plans and became aware of the need of park grounds within the city. As soon as he understood the situation he acted with true western decision and made the handsome gift to the city, and news of it was received with enthusiasm throughout Brainerd.

Site Described
As soon as people heard of the munificent gift to the city, without any ceremony but by universal acclaim, the park has been named "White Park".

The property includes all of West End addition about a block and a half south of Laurel street. It is triangular shaped, has many trees on it and is an ideal spot, giving a splendid unobstructed view of the Mississippi river. There is 500 feet frontage on Water street, 450 on another street running east and west, and 400 to 500 feet on the river.

Gift is Appreciated
The gift of Mr. White is appreciated by every resident of Brainerd. And in addition hundreds of automobile tourists who will use the park as an auto rest camp, will refer with hearty good feeling to Mr. White who has made possible such a camp.

Mr. White's father, L. P. White, was intimately identified with the early history of Brainerd. He built the first house in Brainerd. Father and son have done much for the Episcopal church too.

Quick to Act
Mr. White's Brainerd interests are handled by P. B. Nettleton and it was through the latter that some of Mr. White's river frontage was first used for an auto camp site.

Mr. White's visit in Brainerd of this week end is the first made here in four years and as soon as he realized conditions in Brainerd, saw the spirit of the town and the strides made, progress attained and community spirit actuating it, he said something should be done for more playgrounds and camp sites.

Thursday he looked at the site, part of his Brainerd holdings, and heard the committee.

Friday he deeded the land to the city.

As one Brainerd citizen said as he voiced his appreciation of the splendid donation to the city: "We want Mr. White to visit Brainerd often. He was a part of Brainerd in the early days and his 'White Park' given to Brainerd today shows his heart is still with Brainerd".

Local Donations

Conveniences at the auto tourist rest camp are now assured. Friday morning the Chamber of Commerce parks and playgrounds committee was informed R. R. Wise had donated hardware, Muns Mahlum lumber, etc. This assures the erection of the necessary tables, stoves, toilets, etc., at the camp in "White Park".

Have to Be Handy With Ax.

Nearly all rural Tasmanian men are fairly dexterous with the ax. In the back blocks it is a necessity of life, one of the settler's first jobs being to construct a hut or house out of the growing timber surrounding the site. On farms fencing posts are sure to be required, and splitting them out of tree trunks still demands skill as well as energy, though the older post and rail fence, the all-wood rabbit-proof fence, and the "chopping block" log fence still in vogue in heavily timbered districts required much more ax work than the post and wire fence now generally erected.

ELKS CAR GIVEN AWAY SATURDAY

The house and social committee of the Elks has set Saturday, April 30, as the date when the Elks sedan car, first prize of the contest, is to be given away. The hour is 8 p. m. and the scene in front of the Elks headquarters, Citizens State bank building on Laurel street.

The first prize, the sedan, will fall to the fifth number drawn.

The second prize, the Brunswick phonograph, falls to the tenth number.

The third prize, the watch, goes to the fifteenth number drawn.

The charming little daughter of Mayor and Mrs. F. E. Little will draw the numbers from a washer.

Many Elks want to stage a parade and if this can be carried out, they should be at Elks hall ready to parade at 7 p. m. Elks as pedestrians, Elks in cars, Elks in wheelbarrows, all kinds will be welcome. It is hoped to get the drum corps and the four trumpeters out.

A committee from "The Jollies of 1921" will advertise the show.

Remember, parade at 7 p. m., prize contest at 8 p. m., Saturday April 30.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES TODAY

Travelers for the cities should make a note of the fact, as one man expressed it, that the 5:35 a. m. will leave at 4:20 a. m. The 1 a. m. train for Bemidji will leave at 12:15 a. m. This starts at May 1 and if you don't remember the new time table you will surely get left in Brainerd.

Brazil's Opportunity.

Brazil, which is almost wholly in the tropics, has the opportunity to upset the belief that no people can reach the very highest civilization in a tropical climate. The latest census credits Brazil with 30,500,000 people, which makes it the second American country in point of population. Some modern men of science, most of them British, maintain that when means have been found to utilize the heat of the sun as mechanical energy the tropics will become centers of production and therefore of civilization. If that should be true, what country could match Brazil, with its great resources of minerals, timber and land, and its great navigable rivers?—Youth's Companion.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor:

I was interested to see in your columns, Wednesday evening, that during the afternoon the Chamber of Commerce and their friends visited high school on their regular weekly sight-seeing tour. There was a Roman woman in centuries gone by who said that her children were her jewels. It is a hopeful sign when men as well as women appreciate the value of children, and at this time all over the country different civic bodies of men are becoming interested in their local educational plants. They say an infant at birth is worth $90 to the state, how much more then is a high school pupil worth? Fathers and mothers of the more intelligent class always compare in changing their habitation, the educational advantages of the places to which they contemplate moving. As a small illustration of this we understand that after the building of the attractive school in West Brainerd, people moved so rapidly there that it is already filled to capacity. There is no plant in the city which takes more money to run than the educational plant. It is, therefore, to the credit of the Chamber of Commerce that it is so much up to date as to be interested in this Brainerd's most important investment.

JEWS AND THE WORLD WAR

The development of Palestine under its administration as a Jewish homeland renews interest in the part played by Jews in the late war and how the war affected them. In a communication to the National Geographic society, former President William Howard Taft says:

"One-half the Jews of the world have had to bear its miseries, its cruelties, its sufferings. They lived in the theater of war between Russia and Germany and Austria. In this region, almost without ceasing, the campaign continued. The Russians laid waste the country in order to embarrass their pursuing enemies, and between the two armies the population, of which the Jews were a large part, suffered untold horrors.

"As soon as the war came on, as soon as mobilizations were initiated, Germany and Austria, on the one hand, and Russia, on the other, vied with each other in a cultivation of the good-will of the Poles and the Jews. "Russia promised that an autonomous Poland would be created from all three of the incomplete tribal districts of the partitioned kingdom. Some of the leaders of the Austrian government announced an intention of giving autonomy to Galicia.

"When the war came to an end, tremendous governmental changes occurred in the countries where the Jews are so greatly congested.

"The dreadful destruction of life, the necessity for rehabilitation of these countries where the war raged with such violence and destruction, must necessarily give greater economic value to every man who survives. The loyalty which the Jews have shown to their respective governments in these countries under a most trying ordeal ought to impress their governments with the claim that they make to equal treatment.

"If education and opportunity and freedom and equality are extended to them in the next generation, the traits to which objection has sometimes been made will become less and less conspicuous, and Russia's great domain, which needs people of energy, people of keenness, people of enterprise, people experienced in trade, people of financial genius, will find a benefit in the presence of the Jews.

"From the East End of New York and through centers of population in this country where Jews are gathered, by the million and hundreds of thousands, come the youth of the race who soon manifest a spirit of Americanism and get on.

"They cultivate little or no solidarity in politics, and they manifest a disposition to disintegrate as a community. They retain a loyalty to the race, but not a strict adherence to the ceremonial, and they intermarry with Gentiles.

"The Jews of the world, in countries where they have had equal opportunities, have won their way not only to great financial power, but to places of commanding influence in journalism, in the professions, and in business. They have retained always an acute interest in the welfare of their co-religionists throughout the world. Their religious training has inculcated in them the duty of charity to all—Jew and Gentile.

"The result of the war and the breaking up of Russia and the giving rein to the principle of self-determination of racial units have created a number of independent European states in central and eastern Europe. Of these, the Baltic provinces and Poland, as well as the Czech-Slovak state and the Jugoslav state, have many Jewish citizens. In addition to this, the Greater Roumania, is another state which has many Jewish citizens.

"The German treaty specifically provides that the five great powers shall make future treaties with Poland and with the Czech-Slovak state securing the religious liberties of the people who constitute a minority in those states."

A ROMANCE OF BANANAS AND COFFEE

When the American small boy eats his daily quota of bananas, and when his father and mother sip their breakfast, luncheon, or dinner coffee, they are making important contributions to the prosperity of fellow Americans of whom they know very little—the residents of the five Central American republics which have lately reached a preliminary decision for the formation of a sort of "United States of Central America."

Central America illustrates strikingly the effects of geographic factors on a region's development. All the five republics lie on the relatively narrow isthmus between the south and Mexico on the north. The Spanish settlements made soon after the discovery of America were all on the Pacific side of the isthmus, for the most part on the plateaus and mountain slopes and in the mountain valleys of that region, which temper an otherwise tropical climate. Practically the entire Atlantic side of the isthmus was a low plain, covered with a dense jungle.

At the time of the throwing off of the Spanish yoke in 1821, the Central American settlements were as effectively cut off from the United States as if they had been many thousands of miles away instead of being only across the Caribbean sea. With the settlement of the Pacific coast of the United States, the building of the Panama railroad, and later the construction of a trans-Mexican railway, the Panama canal, and railways across Guatemala and Costa Rica, Central America has become easily accessible.

Shortly before the construction of the Panama railroad, coffee was introduced into Central America from the West Indies, and was found to grow to perfection in the lava soil on the slopes of the volcanic mountains along the Pacific coast of most of the region. Coffee soon became an export of prime importance and has brought much money into Central America.

The remainder of Central America's horticultural romance has as its motif, the banana. In order that the great American hunger for that slender golden fruit might be appeased, large fruit growing and distributing corporations from the United States acquired extensive tracts of land in the Atlantic plain, reclaimed it from the jungle, and planted great banana groves which produce millions of bunches of bananas yearly.

The by-products of this development have been as valuable to Central America as the money that has flowed directly to laborers and to the government. Important cities have sprung up along the Atlantic coast, railroads have been built, and what is probably most important of all, lines of fast, well-equipped steamers, carrying both passengers and freight have been established between the Atlantic ports and those of the United States. In effect the banana has shifted Central America thousands of miles closer to the outside world.

BATTLEGROUND AND PLAYGROUND

The Crimea was the scene of one of the latest anti-Bolshevik military efforts, from outside Russia to win back a part of that old empire. This expedition, under General Wrangel, met disaster as had similar forces launched against the Soviets further north, and the Crimea was overrun by the Bolsheviks.

The Crimean peninsula in which this encounter took place is a land which has aspects known to every school child. It is the land of the Cimmerians about whom Homer sang in the "Odyssey" and from whom the peninsula takes its name; the land of the Crimean war, the siege of Sevastopol, and the "Charge of the Light Brigade"; the land in which Florence Nightingale first caused efficient, ordered mercy to have a part in war.

The Crimea is known as "The Little Paradise" to the Tatars, last of the many races to overrun the peninsula before the land fell under the sway of the Muscovite. A traveler journeying from the North is likely to accept this appellation, if at all, with a strong mental reservation as he crosses the almost desert-like plains of northern Crimea; but once over the mountains that rim the southern shore he will approve the description with enthusiasm. There, nature has made a wonderful garden spot, the Riviera of Russia, a combination of sea, mountains and riotous verdure that really vied with its famed Italian counterpart in the days when Carthage was in flower.

Though a part of what has come to be looked upon as "cold Russia," the southern shore of the Crimea brought to the old empire a touch of the tropics. On the mountain slopes and in the sheltered valleys grow grapes, figs, olives, and all the tender fruits; magnolias, bays, and myrtles; and a profusion of wild flowers and grasses. That the delights of its mild climate were discovered early is testified by the ruins of Greek, Byzantine, and Italian architecture which are to be found among the mosques of the later Tatars, the palaces of the Russian imperial family and nobility, and the magnificent modern hotels of the pleasure towns to which the prosperous classes of Russia flocked before the World war. Yalta, in those care-free days, was Russia's Nice, Newport, and Miami rolled into one; its cafe and casino life was as hectic, gay, and expensive as that to be found in any of the world's pre-war playgrounds.

The Crimea is a peninsula that barely escaped being an island. It hangs from the mainland of South Russia down into the Black sea, like a gigantic watch box shaped like a founder. It is attached by the narrow ribbon of the Isthmus of Perekop, a strip of land only three-quarters of a mile wide and only a few feet above sea level. On one side is the Black sea and on the other the stagnant, shallow, malodorous waters of the Sivatch, or Putrid sea, a lagoon of the Sea of Azov. This is the only unbroken natural land connection between the mainland and the Crimea, but a few miles to the east a narrow part of the Putrid sea has been bridged by the railroad which enters the peninsula.

The greatest width of the Crimea north and south is 115 miles, and its greatest length from "head" to "tail" is 225 miles. It contains about 9,700 square miles, and is thus approximately the size of the state of Vermont or the island of Sicily. Before the World war its population was 2,000,000.

The Crimea was conquered by Catherine the Great of Russia in 1771, and remained a part of the Russian empire until that political entity's collapse in 1917. The bulk of the population remains Tatar, though there is an admixture of both Greek and Italian blood in the nominally Tatar people.

Foe of Dandelions.

East and west, north and south in this fair land of ours, one of the greatest pests to a beautiful lawn is the dandelion. The more we try to get them eliminated the more they thrive. Now the surest remover is a few geese. They prefer dandelion to anything else. If one cannot afford to buy the geese, for they are expensive, get a few of their eggs, give them to an old hen. She will hatch and raise them. They are sturdy little fellows.

Take a strip of wire fencing 3 feet high. Make it in a circle about 10 feet in diameter, place this on the lawn; put the geese in it with a pan of water to drink. Change it about as fast as they clean up a spot. They require little else to eat and become very tame.—Thrill Magazine.

Exceptional Case.

The Spectacular Wheel

THE most spectacular wheels in the world are those carrying millions of automobiles, trucks, and tractors over the roads of the United States. Petroleum—refined petroleum—furnishes the power which drives them, and the lubricants which keep them running.

Throughout ten important Middle Western States, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) serves the drivers of these machines. Not only does it provide them with Red Crown, the high-grade gasoline, and with Polarine, the perfect motor oil, but it furnishes the road oil and asphalt which surfaces hundreds of miles of the best roads in the country as well.

Roads made with Stanolind Paving Asphalt make riding easy and smooth, and by eliminating the ruts and dust it also keeps down the upkeep cost of car, and clothing, and enables the motorist to get the utmost of pleasure from his machine.

Such roads eliminate the constant attention and expense which dirt roads exact, thus saving time, labor and money for property owners along the way.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) manufactures everything made from petroleum. It provides unsurpassed facilities for the use of the highly-trained specialists who oversee every step in the intricate processes of manufacture.

The resulting products are sent to market with the Company's unqualified guarantee that every gallon is made as well as it can be made.
